

Health Care Worker Exposure to a Measles Case

Exposed Health Care Workers who develop new onset fever, conjunctivitis, rash, cough or coryza should stay home from work and report immediately to their facility's Infection Control Practitioner or to the local health department